

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

MAR 29 1973

Dear Jim:

I deeply appreciate the tremendous support the CIA gave to us during the preparation of the President's first International Economic Report. Putting such a document together during a period of international monetary turmoil and of US policy formulation was, I realize, quite a burden on all concerned. Agency employees once again demonstrated how effective they are in quickly responding to demanding and rapidly changing situations. Beyond your loan to us of the two authors of the report, special recognition should be given the Office of Economic Research, the Printing Services Division, and the Cartography Division. I have sent letters to those individuals in these components of the Agency most directly involved in preparing the report. They are named in the attached list.

With warmest regards.

Sincerely,

Peter M. Flanigan
Assistant to the President
for International Economic Affairs

Honorable James R. Schlesinger
